No Dress Down

By Mila Discenza and Blaze Welsh

What brought the Principal and Vice Principal to the decision to take away dress down day for 2 weeks was the amount of students that could not follow the rules. They think the students feel upset about this decision, because they really like dress down days. They think the students will obey by the rules, because they have great students.

"Although, having no dress down did not bother me, I can understand why students would be upset about having no dress down for 2 weeks but I just personally did not care that much." - Mila Discenza

"This decision affected me dearly, I love dressing down on fridays. The fact that my classmates got it taken away from me made me mad." - Blaze Welsh

Harvest Festival

By Alaina Roberts and Emily Zamarripa

At the harvest festival, all grades were able to participate during this event. At this event there was a lot of fun games to play. The students were able to play bingo, spit pumpkin seeds into a cup, use broomsticks to get a pumpkin to the end of a line, use the broomstick to get a hula hoop to the end of the line, toss rings on the pumpkin stem, and get a basketball into a hoop all for candy, there also was a photo booth where many students had fun taking pictures of either themselves are with their friends, and many students had fun coloring on mini pumpkins. I want to give a shout out to the wonderful adults who where running these station also a huge thank you to the police department for the snow cones that kept us fresh and also the delicious popcorn that they made. Also one more huge thank you to principal Dodds and the vice principal Mr. Devarney for allowing us kids to have this festival as a celebration for finishing the end of the nine weeks. I hope that everyone enjoyed this festival and when passing by the principles tell them thank you for letting us have this opportunity.

The SCJH eagles soccer season is over and they came in with a strong win against Palm Bay middle school. Striker Justin Vargas scored three goals during the game with the help of Alex Sabino and Johnathan Garcia. Our amazing goalie Kenneth Williams blocked 6 balls and punted the ball all the way down the field during goal kicks. Scjh lost against Storm Grove 5-1 but played a strong game. Plus basketball tryouts at Scjh are coming up soon. The girls tryouts are on the 29th of October and the boys will be held on the 5th of November. Also don't forget that Scjh is going to have a golf team if anyone is interested.

Artist of the Week

by Katelynn Wood, Francesca Russo, and Zahra Qizilbash

Aili Holmes is the artist of the week. She is very excited to be artist of the week. She looked shocked when we told her. Aili said that she worked hard on the drawing. ENN asked what some of her hobbies are and she said "drawing sometimes and Jiu-Jitsu." We asked how she likes middle school so far and Aili said that it is harder than elementary school with the transitions.

Student of the Week

by Isabel Truckner

Sirus Cetrulo, yes, the son of the science teacher Mr. Cetrulo, is in seventh grade, and apparently really loves oreos. When he was asked if he'd rather eat a whole box of oreos or a whole bottle of pringles, he responded that he would definitely eat the oreos. He was also asked to tell us his favorite subject, and he said that it was civics. Of course, we have to ask a fashion question, and this time it was: What is your favorite thing to wear? "Swimtrunks, flip flops, and a shirt," Sirus answered in a rapidfire like streak. It seems like he was following a theme, because when the question of what he liked to do out of school was presented, he said, "I love to go fishing, bike around, and go to the beach." And, of course, the topic on everyone's mind. What about the past no dress down for two weeks? "I can definitely understand it, but I feel it was a bit unfair to the people who didn't violate the rules. If anything, the punishment should have been administered only to the violators," Sirus said.

Student Life Character Development/Life Skills

by Katelynn Wood, Francesca Russo, and Zahra Qizilbash

Maryland Pryor has been going into Mr. Schmidt's character development classes every week. She has been talking to the students about important issues such as why not using drugs and alcohol, how to resist smoking, having good listening and communication skills, how to manage anger, and much more. She also talked about bullying, how to prevent it, and not to be a bystander and go help the person who is being bullied. Mrs. Pryor has given inspiring speeches to the students which will hopefully keep them on the right track. She has given students advice about their home and school situations, and helps boost the confidence in the students at SCJH. She also helps students deal with their problems in school or even out of school. Mrs. Pryor is a great example for the students at SCJH.

Speech and Debate

by Katelynn Wood, Francesca Russo, and Zahra Qizilbash

Mrs. Palermo teaches speech and debate to the sixth grade students. In her class, they are able to write speeches and present them in front of the rest of the class. Sometimes the students have to make a speech about one side of a debate. The students like being able to get creative with their speeches. They feel like it is a way to express their opinions openly about different topics.

DIY

How to make ice cream in a bag

By Corey Sipel and Noah Foxx

- Step One: Put half and half, sugar, and vanilla extract in a small bag.
- Step Two: Now you prep a big bag full of ice to about halfway.
- Step Three: Zip all the bags and put the small bag with the ingredients in the big bag with ice.
- Step Four: Shake for about 10 minutes(with gloves of some sort.).
- Step Five: Enjoy!

This recipe was made by my mom's friend Cate Shanon. Now I have not had this recipe yet but it sounds amazing. :)
