Team Sports at SCJH

SCJH's first soccer game took place on Thursday, September 13, 2018. The soccer team went against Gifford Middle School and unfortunately lost 4-0. Striker, Alex Sabino made great plays during the intense soccer game. Defender, Pearl Freestone was slide tackled which caused an injury to her knee, so she had to sit out the rest of the game. The Eagles showed great sportsmanship and played by the rules. The team played a good game and gave it their best shot. The Eagles hope to snag a win when they play Palm Bay on Tuesday.

Locker Wars

by Mila Discenza,

Alaina Roberts, Isyss Cheferant, and Emily Zamarippa

How do you like your locker? Do you talk to it when you are mad? Does your locker not open when you want it to? Sometimes when students are at their lockers, they don't always open when they need them to. It also doesn't help that you have to worry about the person above you or the person below you.

Here's what some of our peers have to say about their locker experience so far this year. Avery Wilgeroth: I don't like my locker because the girl above me takes forever to get all of her stuff for her homeroom.

Joseph Butler said that his locker is awesome and the kid underneath him is pretty cool."

Levy Canedy: I like my locker because of the person below me and he does not bother me.

Lizbett Solis: I like my locker because it helps me throughout the day. I also like the person above me.

Kaitlynn Nappo: I like my locker because I'm top and don't have to worry about books dropping on my head when I was on the bottom locker.

Linette Guerra: I don't like my locker because I'm bottom locker and it hurts when I keep getting up and down because of my height.

This is why students with top lockers are allowed to go to their lockers after odd number periods, and students with bottom lockers can go after even number periods. This helps eliminate some of the problems that students may encounter on a trip to their locker.

Cafeteria

by Zahra Qizilbash,

Francesca Russo, and Katelynn Wood

The SCJH cafeteria is full of students during lunchtime. There is a variety of foods served or you can bring your lunch box. Almost every seat is filled. This may sound like chaos, but the students do a great job keeping the cafeteria as clean as possible. The students clean up messes as soon as possible. They can get up and go to the bathroom or go outside, but they don't take advantage of it and run around the cafeteria. When lunch is over, the students meet their teachers outside and head back to class.

Mrs. Stevens Language Arts and Creative Writing by Zahra

Qizilbash, Francesca Russo, and Katelynn Wood

ENN reporters stopped by Mrs. Stevens room during 6th period class. She was teaching Creative Writing to sixth grade students.

ENN: How has your first year at SCJH been so far?

Mrs. Stevens: My first year has been fantastic! I love it here!

ENN: What project have you had the most fun with so far?

Mrs. Stevens: The thing I have enjoyed teaching the most is creative writing. A few weeks ago, we wrote a story about a main character participating in a scientific investigation of a magical object. It is so much fun seeing the students' creativity going wild.

ENN: What is your favorite thing you have done in class so far?

Skylar Hampton: Writing stories and listening to her read about what we're going to do next. It's really helping me to be a better writer.

Jillian Rosas: Write a story about a girl who did a scientific investigation and got to touch magical things. I liked that because I feel like I can write freely.

Taylor Wood: Writing fiction stories

Penelope Ruff: All about me story

Student of the Week

By Gavin Fishman

Every week ENN selects a student to be featured in the newspaper. Indira Cole, a sixth grader, was selected as the student of the week. Indira's favorite class is Art, and she is participating in Art Club on Wednesdays after school. Her hobbies are drawing and writing. When asked, "How do you like middle school?" She replied, "I like it so far."
